KEY RISKS

KEY RISKS

You should be aware that an investment in LMI involves various risks. This section sets out some of the key risks associated with an investment in LMI. A number of risks and uncertainties, which are both specific to LMI, and of a more general nature, may adversely affect the operating and financial performance or position of LMI, which in turn may affect the value of an investment in LMI. The risks and uncertainties described below are not an exhaustive list of the risks facing LMI or associated with an investment in LMI. Additional risks and uncertainties may also become important factors that adversely affect LMI's operating and financial performance or position.

This document is not financial product advice and has been prepared without taking into account your investment objectives or personal circumstances. Potential investors should consider publicly available information on LMI (such as that available on the websites of LMI and ASX), carefully consider their personal circumstances and consult their stockbroker, solicitor, accountant or other professional adviser before making an investment decision. Some of the risks of investing in LMI are set out below, but this list should not be regarded as comprehensive.

Risk	Business Risks
Reliance on information provided for due diligence	LMI has undertaken a financial, operational, business and legal due diligence review in respect of the Marda Acquisition in order to determine their attractiveness to LMI and whether to pursue the Marda Acquisition. Despite taking reasonable steps, LMI has not been able to verify the accuracy, reliability or completeness of all the information provided against independent data. Although LMI has undertaken due diligence in relation to the Marda Acquisition and included standard warranty and indemnity protections in the sale agreement, there is a risk that information provided by the seller (including financial information) was incomplete, inaccurate or unreliable and there is no assurance that the due diligence was conclusive or identified all material issues in relation to the Marda Acquisition. In this regard, LMI may suffer loss or damage flowing from historical events relating to the acquisitions which are not recoverable against the seller.
Acquisition completion risk	Completion of the Marda Acquisition is conditional on various customary conditions for a transaction of this nature, including the approval of shareholders of the issue of the Consideration Shares to Ramelius and Ramelius completing the haulage of existing ore stockpiled on the Run of Mine pad at Marda. LMI considers the condition regarding shareholder approval of the Consideration Shares to be customary for a transaction of this nature and LMI anticipates that the condition will be able to be satisfied in the required timeframe. However, there is no guarantee that the condition regarding completion of haulage will be satisfied within the required timeframe. As completion of the Marda Acquisition will occur only after completion of the Offer, there is a risk that the conditions to which the Marda Acquisition are subject may not be able to be satisfied or waived and that completion of the Marda Acquisition may be delayed, cancelled or otherwise terminated by LMI. If the Marda Acquisition does not complete due to the failure of such conditions, including on termination by LMI, LMI will need to consider alternative uses for the proceeds of the Offer, for instance by way of general working capital, increased exploration on LMI's existing projects or pursuing other acquisition opportunities. If completion of the Marda Acquisition is delayed, LMI may incur additional costs and it may take longer than anticipated for LMI to realise the benefits of the Marda Acquisition. Failure to complete the Marda Acquisition may have an adverse impact on LMI's financial performance, financial position and share price.
Tranche 2 completion risk	Completion of Tranche 2 of the Offer is conditional on the approval of shareholders to issue the Tranche 2 New Shares, and completion of the Marda Acquisition. The approval of shareholders to issue the Tranche 2 New Shares for the Offer is a separate shareholder approval to the approval to issue the Consideration Shares for the Acquisition. Accordingly, there is a risk that shareholders approve the issue of Consideration Shares and the Marda Acquisition otherwise becomes unconditional but shareholders do not approve the issue of the Tranche 2 New Shares. In this case, completion of the Marda Acquisition will occur but Tranche 2 of the Offer will not proceed. This may result in circumstances where LMI has completed the Marda Acquisition but does not have sufficient funds to fund the exploration program across Marda in accordance with the Use of Funds set out on page 8. If the Marda Acquisition completes but Tranche 2 is not approved by shareholders, LMI will not be able to proceed with the issue of the Tranche 2 New Shares may need to seek over avenues to raise additional funds sufficient to finance the exploration activities and costs set out on page 8 (including debt). There can be no assurance that additional finance will be available when needed or, if available, that the terms of the financing will be favourable to LMI.
Exploration	Mineral exploration and development are high-risk undertakings. Even if an apparently viable deposit is identified, there is no guarantee that it can be economically exploited. The future exploration and development activities of the Company may be affected by a range of factors, including geological conditions, limitations on activities due to seasonal weather patterns, unanticipated operational and technical difficulties, industrial and environmental accidents, native title process, changing government regulations and many other factors beyond the control of the Company.
Litigation	Legal proceedings may arise from time to time in the course of LMI's business. LMI may be involved in disputes with other parties which may result in litigation. Any such claim or dispute, if proven, may impact adversely on LMI's exploration, financial performance and financial position.
Occupational health and safety	LMI's exploration activities are subject to a variety of industry specific health and safety laws and regulations which are formulated to improve and to protect the safety and health of employees. Mining exploration is potentially hazardous, and the management of safety and health risks is essential. LMI seeks to implement industry standard procedures in occupational health and safety and meet compliance with government regulations. The occurrence of any industrial accidents, workplace injuries or fatalities may result in workers' compensation claims, related common law claims and potential occupational health and safety prosecutions. The Health and Safety of LMI's employees and contracting partners remains of critical importance in the planning, organisation and execution of LMI's exploration activities. Failure to provide adequate Safety and Health management system could lead to the injury of employees and contractors and as a consequence result in financial and reputational losses from the shutdown of exploration.

Risk	Business Risks
Social License	A number of stakeholders have varying interests in LMI's prospective areas of exploration. The ability of LMI to secure and undertake exploration and development activities within those areas is reliant upon the adequate acknowledgement of the interests of those stakeholders and the satisfactory resolution of native title and (potentially) overlapping tenure. Failure to adequately acknowledge and address this risk could negatively impact the exploration of LMI, and potentially result in an inability to secure, maintain or renew the regulatory approvals required to continue exploration activities.
Environmental regulations and risk	All phases of exploration present environmental risks and hazards. LMI's exploration activities are subject to environmental regulations pursuant to a variety of state and municipal laws and regulations. Environmental legislation provides for, among other things, restrictions and prohibitions on spills, releases or emissions of various substances produced in association with exploration. Compliance with such legislation can require significant expenditures and a breach may result in the imposition of fines and penalties, some of which may be material. Environmental legislation is evolving in a manner expected to result in stricter standards and enforcement, larger fines and liability and potentially increased capital expenditures and operating costs. Environmental assessments of proposed projects carry a heightened degree of responsibility for companies and directors, officers and employees.
License conditions and renewals	LMI's operations and exploration activities require certain licenses to operate that include conditions of operation and renewal. LMI ensures it is in compliance with all of its license conditions and any renewal requirements. Changes in regulatory conditions and requirements, or the expansion of permit areas with additional regulatory conditions and requirements beyond what is currently required, remain a risk with ongoing and new exploration activities.
Key personnel	LMI's success depends on the continued services of its key personnel. LMI could be adversely affected if any of the key management team ceased to actively participate in the management of LMI or ceased employment with LMI entirely. LMI has in place incentive arrangements aimed at managing this risk.
Regulations	LMI's operations are subject to government laws, regulations and policies governing (among other things) taxation, exploration, production, exports, labour standards, occupational health and safety, greenhouse gas reporting, and environmental protection. Any future changes in these laws, regulations or policies may adversely affect LMI's exploration activities.
Share market conditions	The value of LMI's shares will be determined by the stock market and will be subject to varied and often unpredictable influences beyond LMI's control. These factors include, but are not limited to, the demand for, and availability of LMI's shares, and rates of inflation, fluctuations in the Australian and international stocks markets, changes in fiscal, monetary and regulatory policies, and general domestic and international and economic activity. Depending on general market conditions and LMI's share price, LMI may not be able to attract new investors or raise capital as and when required. The value of quoted securities is subject to fluctuations in response to these factors, which cannot be controlled or accurately predicted, and prevailing market sentiment and overall share market performance may adversely impact the price of LMI's Shares, irrespective of LMI's underlying performance.
Liquidity risk	LMI shareholders who wish to sell their LMI shares may be unable to do so at an acceptable price, or at all, if insufficient liquidity exists in the market for LMI shares. LMI does not guarantee the market price or liquidity of LMI shares, and there is a risk you may lose some or all of the money you invested.
Changes in taxation and accounting standards	Changes to tax legislation, the interpretation of tax legislation by the courts, the administration of tax legislation by the relevant tax authorities and the applicability of such legislation may affect LMI's financial performance or the tax treatment of an investment in LMI's Shares, including any returns on LMI's Shares (for example, any franked dividends). Additionally, accounting standards may change which may affect the reported earnings of LMI and its financial position.
Economic factors	The Company is subject to general market risk that is inherent for all entities whose securities are listed on a securities exchange. This may result in fluctuations in the Share price that are not explained by the fundamental operations and activities of the Company. The price of the Company's Shares quoted on the ASX following reinstatement may rise or fall and the Shares may trade below or above the Offer Price due to a number of factors. These include, but are not limited to, the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • the number of potential buyers or sellers of Shares on the ASX at any given time; • fluctuations in the domestic and international market for listed stocks; • general economic conditions including the unemployment rate, interest rates, inflation rates, exchange rates, commodity and oil prices, and changes to government fiscal, monetary or regulatory policies, legislation or regulation; • recommendations by brokers or analysts; • inclusion in, or removal from, market indices; • global hostilities, tensions, and acts of terrorism; • the nature of the markets in which the Company operates; and • general operational and business risks.

Risk	Business Risks
Shareholder dilution	In the future, the Company may elect to issue Shares to fund or raise proceeds for working capital, growth, acquisitions, to repay debt, or for any other reason. While the Company will be subject to the constraints of the ASX Listing Rules regarding the percentage of its capital that it is able to issue within a 12-month period (other than where exceptions apply), Shareholder interests may be diluted, and Shareholders may experience a loss in value of their equity as a result of such issues of Shares and fundraisings.
Native Title and Indigenous Heritage	In relation to tenements which the Company has an interest in or will in the future acquire such an interest there may be areas over which legitimate common law native title rights of Traditional Owners exist. If native title rights do exist, the ability of the Company to gain access to tenements (through obtaining consent of any relevant landowner), or to progress from the exploration phase to the development and mining phases of operations may be adversely affected.
Force majeure events	Events may occur within or outside Australia that could impact upon the global and Australian economies, the operations of the Company, or the price of the Shares. These events include, but are not limited to, terrorism, an outbreak of international hostilities, fires, floods, earthquakes, labour strikes, civil wars, natural disasters, outbreaks of disease such as COVID-19 or other man-made or natural events or occurrences that can have an adverse effect on the Company's activities including, but not limited to, the ability to undertake or perform its obligations that may lead to dissatisfaction with the Company's development of projects, which in turn may lead to disruptions of future proposed operations and the Company's capacity to explore.
Investment speculation	The above list of risks should not be taken as exhaustive of the risks faced by the Company or by prospective investors in the Company. The above risk factors, and others not specifically referred to above, may in the future materially affect the financial performance of the Company and the value of the New Shares. The New Shares carry no guarantee with respect to the payment of dividends, returns of capital or the market value of those securities. Prospective investors should consider that the investment in the Company is highly speculative and should consult their professional advisers before deciding whether to apply for New Shares pursuant to this Prospectus. Prospective investors should carefully consider these risks in light of their investment objectives, financial situation and particular needs (including financial and taxation issues). There may be risk factors in addition to these that should be considered in light of personal circumstances.
