Verbrec signs StacksOn™ Global Reseller Agreement with Datamine

Verbrec Limited (ASX : VBC) (Verbrec or the Company) today announces that its wholly owned subsidiary StacksOn Operations Pty Ltd has entered into a Software Reseller Agreement (Agreement) with Datamine for Verbrec's stockpile digital twin product, StacksOn™.

The Agreement is on customary terms and provides Datamine the non-exclusive, worldwide right to distribute StacksOn™ either on a stand-alone basis or incorporated via an Application Program Interface (API) into Datamine's suite of sustainable mining software applications.

Verbrec will also provide integration, support and training services under the Agreement to Datamine clients who adopt the StacksOn™ technology.

StacksOn™ specialised functionality compliments Datamine's integrated software solutions for the entire mining value chain. Through Datamine's established international customer base and market leading reputation, the Agreement has the potential to introduce the benefits of StacksOn™ to mining operations which otherwise would not be readily accessible by Verbrec alone.

A note from the Chief Executive Officer

I am excited to have reached this major milestone for StacksOn™.

Datamine is truly a world-leader in the mining technology space, and through collaborative discussions between Verbrec and Datamine we have entered into this Software Reseller Agreement which has the potential to expand the reach of StacksOn™ and its benefits to both Australian and International mining operations.

StacksOn™ is very well regarded by its current clients in Australia, including BHP, producing efficiencies, increasing productivity and reducing downtime at iron ore mines and ports in Western Australia.

We are enthusiastically working with Datamine to identify mining operations, both domestic and international, where StacksOn™ can add value to mining operations.
