MELBOURNE, Australia (16 October 2025) – Lumos Diagnostics Holdings Ltd (ASX: LDX, “Lumos” or the “Company”), a leader in rapid, point-of-care diagnostic technologies, is pleased to advise it has reached an agreement with WellStreet Urgent Care (“WellStreet”) to advance testing and reimbursement for FebriDx® through WellStreet’s joint venture with Piedmont Healthcare in Atlanta, Georgia. The program is expected to commence in October 2025.

The FebriDx testing will occur at a Piedmont Urgent Care location handling approximately 50 patients per day presenting with respiratory infections, providing volume and operational insight. WellStreet will procure the FebriDx® test through PHASE Scientific. Pro-spectus will oversee data management and reimbursement outcomes. The insights gained through this initiative will greatly assist in developing a robust process for establishing future coverage policies with national insurance organizations.

Should FebriDx® secure a CLIA waiver grant, the intention is to leverage this agreement as the foundation for a nationwide roll-out across WellStreet’s approximately 140 urgent care locations in the US.

“This collaboration with Lumos to implement FebriDx® at one of our busiest urgent care centers reflects WellStreet’s ongoing commitment to operational excellence and innovative patient care. The ability to embed a rapid respiratory test into our workflows aligns with our core mission to deliver high-quality health care across our network,” said WellStreet Urgent Care Chief Operating Officer and Chief Medical Officer Dr. Michael Duchynski.

Commenting on the announcement, Doug Ward, CEO of Lumos Diagnostics said: “We are excited to partner with WellStreet to bring FebriDx® into a high-throughput, clinically integrated setting. This agreement will greatly assist in laying the groundwork for a scalable national roll-out, pending CLIA waiver. We also greatly value the role of PHASE Scientific and Pro-spectus in aiding in the rollout of this program.”
