Noodlecake expands publishing pipeline with agreement for mobile adaptation of 'Yes, Your Grace: Snowfall'

Streamplay Studio Limited ("Streamplay" or the "Company") (ASX: SP8) is pleased to announce that its wholly owned subsidiary, Noodlecake Studios Ltd ("Noodlecake"), has entered into a second agreement with respected indie game developers Brave At Night to publish Yes, Your Grace: Snowfall on iOS and Android.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Publishing agreement signed between Noodlecake Studios and Brave at Night to port 'Yes, Your Grace: Snowfall' to mobile platforms.
- Agreement aligned with industry-standard publishing terms and will see Noodlecake handle the technical port to mobile.
- This represents the second collaboration between the studios, following the successful mobile release of the original 'Yes, Your Grace'.
- The first title achieved several awards, over 1.5M installs, and ~A$767,000 in gross sales across Apple and Android (excluding Arcade and Play Pass royalties).
- The sequel expands the acclaimed kingdom-management experience, introducing deeper narrative, new characters and enhanced decision-making systems.
- Already available on PC via Steam, the mobile release of 'Yes, Your Grace: Snowfall' is targeted for Q2 2026.

Summary

This agreement represents the continuation of a strong partnership between Noodlecake and Brave At Night. The original Yes, Your Grace established a significant global audience, recognised for its emotive storytelling, distinctive pixel-art presentation and consequential kingdom-management gameplay.

BRAVE AT NIGHT

The original title earned Apple Editors' Choice, received multiple award nominations on Steam, and achieved more than 1.5 million installs across Apple and Android storefronts under a try-before-you-buy model. To date, the title has generated ~A$767,000 in gross sales across iOS and Android (excluding Arcade and Play Pass subscription royalties). These indicators reflect historical player engagement and title visibility and are operational in nature. They are not predictive of revenue or financial performance, with commercial outcomes subject to platform dynamics, conversion rates and reporting timelines.

Under this new agreement, Noodlecake will oversee the complete adaptation of Yes, Your Grace: Snowfall for mobile, including optimisation across iOS and Android, mobile-native UX integration, storefront submissions and post-launch support. Work will commence immediately with the mobile release targeted for the end of Q2 2026.

The sequel builds on the original title's acclaimed design, expanding narrative depth, character arcs, branching decision-making systems and political dynamics. With an established mobile audience and strong early PC performance, the upcoming mobile release aligns with Noodlecake's premium narrative portfolio and demonstrates the Group's capability in extending successful IPs to mobile platforms.

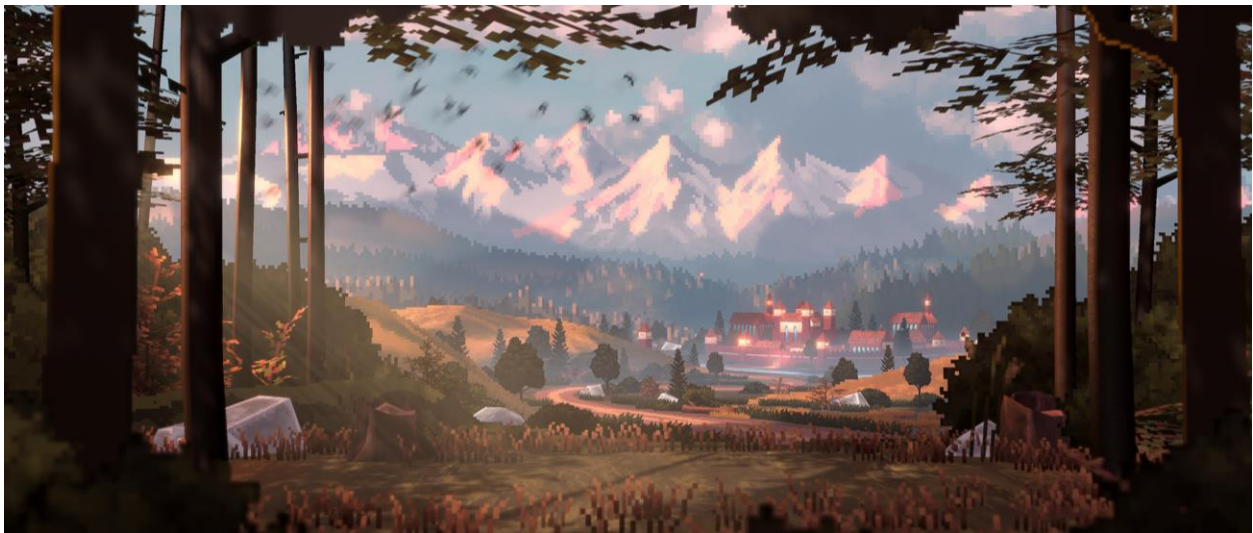

This agreement further strengthens Noodlecake's growing portfolio of premium narrative titles and underscores its position as a preferred publishing partner for high-quality independent developers.

About the Game

Yes, Your Grace: Snowfall is a narrative kingdom-management game in which players must navigate a series of impactful decisions affecting their family, subjects and realm. The sequel deepens the franchise's core experience through:

- expanded multi-threaded story progression;
- broader political and economic decision-making systems;
- new faction dynamics and character-driven outcomes; and
- enhanced visual and musical direction informed by the original's signature style.

The new title builds on the award-winning legacy of Yes, Your Grace, introducing a more ambitious structure and greater narrative consequence while retaining the emotional depth and strategic challenge that defined the first game.

Already released on PC via Steam in May 2025, Noodlecake will be managing the full mobile adaptation for iOS and Android. The Trailer¹ is available to watch on Brave at Night's YouTube channel.

“ Brave At Night are exceptional storytellers, and Snowfall is a meaningful evolution of the world they created in Yes, Your Grace. We're excited to be collaborating again and look forward to bringing the much anticipated sequel to our mobile audience.

Commercial Terms

Noodlecake's publishing agreements are typically structured under standardised publishing terms that define delivery responsibilities, revenue-share arrangements, and post-launch support. In most cases, the Company retains 80–100 percent of revenue until its investment and associated costs are fully recouped, after which revenue reverts to the underlying commercial split. These post-recoup arrangements generally fall within a 20–40 percent revenue-share range, depending on development requirements, financing, and technical involvement.

This framework simplifies engagement with development partners and ensures consistency across projects. As a result, there are no other material non-confidential terms of this agreement nor any other approvals or requirements for the agreement to be effective.

Revenue outcomes are dependent on factors such as platform performance, release timing, and ongoing live-ops support, and will be reported in future quarterly updates as applicable.
