8.6.1	Does the entity expect that it will continue to have the current level of net operating cash flows for the time being and, if not, why not?
	Answer: Fluence does not expect net operating cash used to continue at this level beyond the current quarter. The negative operating cash flow was primarily the result of timing of significant milestone payments received from the Ivory Coast Addendum project in Q4 2025 with cash payments to vendors that required settlement in Q1 2026. This timing is partially why operating cash flow was +$10.9 million in FY2025, as that period benefited from higher collections than payments on this particular project. The Company expects some variability in operating cash flows, including potential improvement as milestone payments are received; however, there always remains inherent uncertainty in the timing of such receipts.

- 8.6.2 Has the entity taken any steps, or does it propose to take any steps, to raise further cash to fund its operations and, if so, what are those steps and how likely does it believe that they will be successful?

Answer: The entity continues to actively manage its liquidity position and has undertaken, and continues to evaluate, a range of measures to support cash flow. These include a focus on improving collections on existing projects, managing the timing and level of project-related expenditures, and assessing additional funding options, including debt facilities and other financing alternatives. As noted in Section 7.5, the Company also has unused financing facilities available at the quarter end of $3.3 million.

- 8.6.3 Does the entity expect to be able to continue its operations and to meet its business objectives and, if so, on what basis?

Answer: Based on current cash balances, available unused financing facilities available at quarter end, and the actions outlined above, the entity expects to be able to continue its operations and meet its business objectives.

Note: where item 8.5 is less than 2 quarters, all of questions 8.6.1, 8.6.2 and 8.6.3 above must be answered.
