Titomic Receives Purchase Order from Lufthansa Technik AG

HUNTSVILLE, AL – Titomic Limited (ASX: TTT), a global advanced manufacturing company serving the U.S. and allied industrial base, using its proprietary cold spray Titomic Kinetic Fusion™ technology, is pleased to announce that Lufthansa Technik AG signed a contract to provide additional cold spray capability to its facility in Hamburg, Germany. The contract is valued at greater than AUD 1.2 million with delivery expected in Q4 of 2026.

Lufthansa Technik AG has been utilizing Titomic Kinetic Fusion™ (TKF)™ technology for the last five years for aircraft part repairs and this contract expands that capability by adding additional low pressure TKF™ capability in a turn-key spray booth environment.

Titomic Managing Director & CEO, Jim Simpson commented:

“This new contract further solidifies our partnership with Lufthansa Technik AG and confirms their confidence in Titomic’s technology and capabilities to boost their capacity for the repair and maintenance of aircraft parts. We are honored to support Lufthansa Technik AG in advancing their excellence in world class aircraft maintenance and repair”.

This contract further reinforces Titomic’s commitment to expanding Titomic Kinetic Fusion™ cold spray additive manufacturing technologies across aerospace, defense, energy, and industrial sectors, enabling faster, more cost-effective production, repair, and coating solutions.

This announcement has been authorized for release by Titomic’s Board of Directors.
