Transaction Rationale

Nutritional Growth Solutions Limited (ASX: NGS) ("NGS" or the "Company") has entered into a binding Share Sale Agreement to acquire 100% of Sprout Organic Pty Ltd ("Sprout"), an Australian organic infant and children's nutrition company focused on plant-based and allergen-friendly products (the "Transaction").

The acquisition establishes a broader paediatric nutrition platform spanning infant, toddler and childhood categories — combining Sprout's infant and toddler nutrition portfolio with NGS's clinically backed Healthy Heights growth products. Together, the combined business is expected to support customer relationships across multiple stages of childhood development, while strengthening NGS's position across several fast-growing nutrition categories: infant nutrition, plant-based nutrition, allergen-friendly products and premium health-focused nutrition.

The material terms of the Transaction are set out in Schedule 1 to this announcement.

A World-First Product Solving a Real — and Growing — Problem

Awareness of childhood food allergies and dietary intolerance has risen sharply, and Australia sits at the centre of it. Up to 10% of Australian infants are affected by an allergy, and more than 2% have a cow's-milk protein allergy¹ — with Australia frequently described as the "allergy capital of the world" on a per-capita basis. For these families, conventional dairy- and soy-based infant formula simply is not suitable.

At the same time, today's parents are actively choosing cleaner, plant-based nutrition: around 72% of Millennials (particularly those with children) express a strong interest in plant-based foods². The result is a structural, effectively "forced" demand driver for allergen-friendly, plant-based formula — a need the market has historically been unable to meet.

Sprout developed the world's first FSANZ-approved 100% organic, plant-based infant formula — purpose-built to give allergen-sensitive and plant-based families a trusted, clean-label option from day one. It is free from dairy, soy and common allergens, and is backed by proprietary formulation IP and provisional patents. FSANZ approval is itself a significant regulatory barrier to competition, creating a genuine moat in a category with no direct equivalent globally.

Up to ~10% of Australian infants are affected by an allergy; Sprout's plant-based formula is built for exactly this need.

One Brand, From Birth to Adolescence

Parents are typically forced to switch trusted brands every two to three years as a child's needs change — from infant formula, to toddler nutrition, to childhood supplements. Each switch creates churn and renewed anxiety around allergens, taste and safety. No single player has owned the trusted "infant-to-teen" relationship — and that is precisely the white space this combination is built to fill.

One brand relationship — from birth to adolescence

The combined platform removes the “brand switch” every few years, capturing the customer for life

Sprout covers ages 0–3 (infant formula and toddler drink); Healthy Heights covers ages 3–10+ (clinically supported growth nutrition). Together they create a complete 0-to-teen nutritional pathway on a single, lifelong brand relationship — removing the “brand switch” problem entirely.

Built for Cross-Selling: Immediate Synergies

The two businesses are highly complementary and share an identical, asset-light operating model. That means synergies are available almost immediately on completion — across revenue, cost and operations — without the capital expenditure usually required to scale.

Immediate synergies — built for cross-selling

Two complementary brands, two established channels, one combined platform — no capex to scale

On the revenue side, NGS can launch Sprout’s plant-based range into its U.S. Amazon and Shopify channels, while Healthy Heights enters Sprout’s national pharmacy network and China footprint. On cost, management has identified ~A$870,000 of annualised savings (with ~US$600k activated immediately on close) through shared corporate functions, reduced listing and director costs, and back-office consolidation. With inventory issues now resolved, paused marketing campaigns can be reinstated against confirmed demand.

Board & Leadership Changes

On completion, a refreshed leadership team will drive the combined group. Sprout Founder & CEO Selasi Berdie will be appointed NGS Chief Executive Officer & Executive Director; Sprout COO Ben Chester will become Group Chief Operating Officer; and Manik Pujara, currently Executive Director & Interim CEO, will transition to a Non-Executive Director role. The appointment of Mr Berdie as a director is subject to shareholder approval at the AGM.
