Rimfire Appoints Global Critical Minerals Funding & Marketing Advisor

Highlights

- Rimfire appoints Xcelsior Capital Advisors (Xcelsior), a UK-based critical minerals investment and advisory firm.
- Xcelsior is the investment partner arm of the Wogen group of companies (Wogen) and specialises in financial support to critical metals and minerals producers. Wogen is a global leader in the specialist metals and minerals markets, including scandium, with a track record spanning more than 50 years.
- Xcelsior will assist Rimfire with potential funding, support with government relations, OEM's, international financial institutions, and potential offtake partners for the Company's NSW scandium assets, as well as providing Rimfire with ongoing scandium market research and intelligence.

Australian critical minerals explorer - Rimfire Pacific Mining (ASX: RIM, "Rimfire" or "the Company") is pleased to advise the engagement of UK-based investment advisory house Xcelsior Capital Advisors Limited ("Xcelsior") to assist with global marketing and potential funding of Rimfire's scandium exploration and development assets in NSW.

Xcelsior provides boutique investment and advisory services to businesses involved in the production and distribution of critical metals and minerals associated with the global energy transition. Xcelsior is an investment partner of Wogen, a specialist metals and minerals trading group with more than 50 years' experience in critical minerals markets, including scandium.

Xcelsior has been provided with a mandate to engage with potential strategic partners, offtake partners, OEMs, governments and financial institutions who may be interested in assisting Rimfire with the advancement of the Company's portfolio of scandium projects near the town of Fifield in central western NSW.

Rimfire looks forward to working collaboratively with Xcelsior to engage with potential funding, government and supply chain and marketing/offtake partners for Rimfire's scandium assets.

Commenting on the announcement, Rimfire's Managing Director Mr David Hutton said: "We are delighted that the Xcelsior team have identified Rimfire as a global scandium business worthy of their support. With contacts throughout the international investment and metals trading communities, Xcelsior – a group backed by established commodity trading house Wogen Resources – has the potential to deliver game-changing financing and marketing outcomes for Rimfire's emerging Scandium business."
